

PROGRAM MANAGEMENT, EXECUTION & DELIVERY

Interpersonal Health Solutions

Strengthen public health infrastructure

When HIV, STD, mental health, human services, and relationship violence programs operate in silos, it becomes harder to reach people, sustain funding, and demonstrate impact. We help strengthen the infrastructure behind prevention and treatment so your organization can deliver coordinated services, comply with federal requirements, and expand access to care.

Together with state and local jurisdictions, we assess current systems, redesign operating models, and implement practical improvements across clinical quality, contracts, pharmacy, fiscal management, and data.

Build integrated programs that enhance access, compliance, and revenue opportunities

Create stronger, connected programs

Modernize interpersonal health promotion and treatment services where needs and funding streams intersect, including HIV, STIs, mental health, human services, and violence/neglect initiatives. We begin with a comprehensive assessment that identifies gaps in governance, workflows, staffing, technology, and stakeholder coordination.

From there, we help you redesign program methodologies and train staff and partners to apply established and emerging best practices in administration and service delivery.

To increase accountability and consistency, we:

1

Strengthen contract compliance and monitoring practices for subrecipients

2

Develop clinical quality improvement programs that support evidence-based care

3

Support combined care and treatment planning that teams can act on across programs

We also help you improve community and stakeholder engagement to locate people out of care, reduce access barriers, and focus resources where they can have the greatest impact.

Our approach

We provide end-to-end technical assistance and capacity building that carries through from assessment to implementation and sustainability. This involves setting clear performance goals, defining measurable indicators, and creating a sequenced roadmap that accounts for policy, funding, workforce capacity, and community context.

Our capabilities

Organizational design to clarify roles, responsibilities, and governance that supports compliance with federal policies and corrective action plan requirements

Pharmacy management support to expand medical models of viral suppression and prevention, grow pharmacy operations, and optimize 340B opportunities and allocation models

Fiscal analysis and revenue optimization to strengthen budgeting, forecasting, and allocation planning while aligning financial practices with federal and market standards

Digital solutions to enhance monitoring and case management—including dashboards with near real-time program and administrative visibility—and automate administrative tasks using AI tools and digital solutions

Subrecipient monitoring and reporting modernization through new tools and processes for consistent oversight, performance tracking, and timely issue resolution
